

ABSTRACT

An MFP that functions as an image forming device prints a specified mark on paper including an IC tag and writes IC tag information including mark information that indicates the specified mark's content on the IC tag included in the paper.